NTSRI PRESIDENT'S LETTER

By Bill Kerns

Spring has finally arrived in the Northeast! After the blizzard of 2013, followed by two more snow storms and over 10 feet of snow...the snow is finally melting! Life is good, again!

I hope your lambing season went well and your lambs met your expectations. It is time to assess your flock and plan for additions that will improve your genetic base. Be thinking of consigning some of your best stock to the Tunis sales noted on the web site (www.tunis Sheep.org). Presenting sheep that you are proud of is good for the Breeder, the Buyer and the organization.

Tunis sheep numbers and NTSRI memberships continue to grow across North America with 322 memberships at last count. Continued interest in Tunis will likely support an increase in sales in 2013. The increased numbers of sales give our youth great opportunities to see Tunis sheep from many farms across the country and to buy NTSRI Futurity lambs.

The NTSRI National Show and Sale in Wooster, OH has consigned a large selection of quality sheep with good genetics. Come join in the fun and add some new genetics to your flock. The Ohio Tunis Sheep Association will be hosting the National Show and Sale again this year; I want to send them a huge Thank You from all the membership for organizing this event. The event begins with a welcome gathering on Friday evening...a great time to enjoy, relax and catch up with friends and enjoy some good food. Please check the website in weeks to come, for more information.

Region 1 & Northeast Tunis Sheep Association (NETSA)

The days are getting longer, the temperature is warmer, the snow is melting, and lambs playing in the pastures....spring is in the air in New England & Canada. What a beautiful time of the year in the Northeast.

On February 17, 2013 the NETSA Board held their annual planning meeting at the home of Bill and Sharon Kerns, WindSong Farms, Harvard, MA. Plans were discussed for the upcoming NETSA Annual Meeting and 2013 Show/Sale events and fund raisers for the youth.

NETSA will be holding its annual meeting on April 13, 2013. It will begin at 11:00 AM at Half Pint Farm, home of Jerry, Darlene & Brianna Taylor in Shirley MA. Plan to be part of this important event where New England Tunis event planning is finalized. The Good Shepherd 4-H Sheep Club will be serving lunch - hot dogs & hamburgers on the grill, chips baked beans and desserts! Great opportunity to attend with your whole family, everyone is welcome.

Many events, activities and promotions are planned for the New England Youth Sheep Show and Sale, July 19th - 21st....games/pizza party, best headed ram/ewe, extra monies for premiums and buyer's credits for the sale.

The Northeast Regional Tunis Show at the Big E will be Saturday, September 21st starting at 2:00 PM. Slick shorn classes will be offered again this year. Activities are in the planning stages for adults and youth....ice cream social/pizza party.

Come join the fun, plan to be a part of these important events, meet old friends, make new friends, but most important....promote those beautiful red heads!

The Northeast Tunis Sheep Association

The months ahead for NTSRI are full of excitement and many activities. Many volunteers will put in many hours making plans for the various events throughout the year; we do appreciate our volunteers...thank you. Please come to any or all of the events that are posted on the website and have fun. Get together with old friends, make new friends, you never know....a new member may become a lifelong friend!

I want to thank all for the support you have given me as well as the other Directors this past year. It was an honor and privilege to serve as President for NTSRI. I have enjoyed the support of many new volunteers, their creative ideas and hard work throughout the year. Let's continue to promote those "beautiful red-heads" at every opportunity. On behalf of the NTSRI BOD, I wish all a successful 2013 Show and Sale season and I look forward to seeing many of you throughout the year.

2013 Tunis Yearling Jackpot

Information

The third Annual Tunis Yearling Jackpot is off to a great start. The next sustaining entry fee of $10.00/head was due April 1, 2013. At the present time, there are ten farms participating with 43 ewe lambs (yearlings now) entered. The next and final sustaining entry fee of $30.00/head will be due July 1, 2013. Final details for the 2013 Tunis Yearling Ewe Jackpot Show at NAILE will be in the next newsletter. The payout (100% less 10% to NETSA for Youth Programs) will be distributed to the first five places in the Jackpot Show in NAILE.

1st place – 50%,

2nd place – 20%,

3rd place – 15%,

4th place – 10%,

5th place – 5%.

Good luck to everyone,

Sharon Kerns

Website Update

by: Sharon Kerns

Spring has finally arrived and the 2013 lambing season will soon be coming to an end for most breeders across the US and Canada. Now, we are thinking about the 2013 show and sale season. As the liaison for the NTSRI website, my goal is to keep the website updated with news, results and photos for the Tunis Gallery, Photo Contest and especially photos of our youth for the NTJA section.

During the upcoming months while attending/showing at the various sales and shows across the US and Canada, if you have information and photos you would like to have posted on the NTSRI website; please forward to sharonkerns@charter.net.

The new NTSRI website, www.tunissheep.org, is fully functional now and supporting membership and registrations, electronically. Electronic payments are made through Paypal or Credit Card. Please have a look and give it a try.

Top...March Winner:

Bottom...February winner:

by Mike & Kathy Niese, Big Time Tunis, Ottawa, OH.

January winner: by Leanne Von Kappel, Rainbow Birch Farm and Gardens, Whidbey, WA.

National Tunis Sheep Registry Inc. – Photo Contest

The Tunis Pride Photo Contest is in full swing with monthly winners posted on the NTSRI website (www.tunissheep.org). We have had some beautiful photos submitted for 2013.... January by Leanne Von Kappel, Rainbow Birch Farm and Gardens, Whidbey, WA., February by Mike & Kathy Niese, Big Time Tunis, Ottawa, OH.

Spring is in the air; now is the perfect time to get photos of those beautiful red lambs....lying beside or on top of mom and jumping like popcorn in the pastures; you have to love the photos with our children and grandchildren.

To qualify for each month you need to send the photo by the 10th of the month. If you send an entry, you will need to sign a photo release form. That form is on the NTSRI website. Winners will receive a free ad with two pictures on the NTSRI website, plus the winning photo will be published in the NTSRI newsletter with farm information. Great advertisement!

Please e-mail your entries to one of the committee volunteers: John McDonough, davidbrown-farm@comcast.net , Troy Staples, bctunis@gmail.com or Sharon Kerns, sharonkerns@charter.net

Now, get your cameras, cell phones and iPods out and start clicking. Thanks.

Greetings fellow Tunis breeders,

The National Tunis Junior Association has had an exciting first year and we look forward to the show season ahead. Most importantly is the introduction of our own bank account that will be managed by our treasurer, Jessica Swihart. We will be able to accept and write checks directly into and out of our account, increasing our efficiency and giving us more opportunities to promote youth. We also passed our first official by-laws that are downloadable from the NTSRI website.

This show season, we will have activities planned for at least 6 main shows: the National Show and Sale at Wooster, the Midwest Junior Preview, the New England Show, All-American, KILE, and NAILE. Up and coming at Wooster we have some fun events planned in partnership with the Ohio Tunis Sheep Association. Look for outdoor games at the Friday BBQ, ice cream during the Subway lunch, and a Barn Couture fashion show where participants get to dress up in and show off their "middle-of-the-night-lambing" best with the winner splitting half the profits with the juniors. The NTJA will also be auctioning off baskets at the NTSRI Breeders Banquet and having a raffle for a NTJA-sponsored Junior buyer credit that can be used by a lucky junior at the sale on Sunday.

We have many other activities planned for the rest of the show season, including our season-long raffle and youth service projects. Prizes for the raffle are as follows: $250 for first, $150 for second, and $100 for third place. Tickets are $5 each or $20 for 5, and the winners will be selected during the Tunis Open Show at NAILE. You don't have to be present to win, and the profits will go to funding more activities for the youth. We want to say thank-you in advance to everyone that helps support our raffle! We also have two youth service projects this year: collecting pop tabs for Ronald McDonald House and a canned-food collection for the Dare to Care food bank in Louisville. Donations for each can be brought to the aforementioned shows where NTJA members will collect them. We hope to show that junior sheep organizations can not only support their breed, but their communities too.

I am very excited for the NTJA's second year, and I hope that we will take great strides toward making this organization meaningful for youth as a support system and a way to develop leadership skills. Thank you to everyone that has supported us so far in every way! Good luck to all in the 2013 show season, and we'll see you at Wooster!

Sincerely,

Rachel Schambow

NTJA President

DON'T FORGET THE "FLEECE"!

Marianne is reminding everyone to enter Tunis fleeces in the National Wool Show in Wooster.

Fleeces may be entered in person at Rostraver Farm's booth in Building 13, Friday afternoon or before 8 AM on Saturday, where they will be judged at 9 AM.

You can also mail your fleeces by May 17th to Marianne Turcheck, 1574 Rostraver Rd., Belle Vernon, PA 15012.

There is a $3 entry fee per fleece.

Please include: owner name/farm name, address, email, phone number, Ram or Ewe, animal's age, registration number, fleece weight and how many month's growth should be listed on an index card accompanying each entry.

Fleeces should be priced if they are for sale. Otherwise, fleeces should be picked up in person, or other arrangements may be made to return fleeces after the show.

Judging of the fleeces will be at 9 AM Saturday and the fleeces will be on display all weekend.

Complete Wool Show rules are available in the January issue of the Tunis Messenger Newsletter, or online at the NTSRI website at www.tunissheep.org.

Time to Change the Fleece: A Grower's Guide to Expanded Profits by Producing a Cleaner Clip

PART ONE OF FOUR

By Carrie Hull and Robyn Kuhl

CBI Fiber Solutions, Sandpoint, Idaho. Contact: Info@fiberproducers.com.

We are creatures of habit. It happens every year, no matter the circumstance. Each year we do exactly the same thing. We change nothing so nothing changes. The day the wool comes off the sheep...

It's time to make some changes, simple changes that benefit individual farms and ranches, the wool industry, and ultimately the U.S. textile industry. What we do daily on the ranch is the very first step towards benefitting not only our farms, but also the growth of the textile industry and jobs in the U.S. The difference between doing the same old thing and implementing simple yet crucial improvement practices can mean as much as 10 to 100 times more return for the grower! It's time to pull the wool back from over our eyes.

U.S. wool producers need to compete with other wool producing countries. The easiest and fastest way to do this is through the quality of our clip. Incremental steps that have a profound impact upon the quality of the wool need to be taken. Whether you are a large producer or a shepherd with a small flock, these impactful practices can easily be incorporated into daily life and increase profit and sustainability. They require little additional money, just a bit of thought and a moment of time. Many sheep producers could increase their wool check more than 100% if they would get their wool out of the defect grade. While we may not be able to control the market conditions for wool or lamb, improving our wool preparation and quality increases the number of markets that are available to us. As we learn more about the fiber grown on the animals we raise, we are better equipped to make breeding, management and marketing decisions.

This is the first of a four-part series introducing practices that improve your profit while positively impacting the wool and the textile industry in the United States. Note the key phrase throughout the articles: Changing just 10% of what you are doing can have more than double the impact on the profit you currently experience. Let's find out how.

Expanding your thinking from the inside out is the first step. Sheep are more than a carcass (inside) – they also naturally produce wool (outside). Utilizing the entire animal increases your ability to profit. Expand your thinking, planning and implementation with the sheep and its wool in mind.

Increasing your wool income starts the day after shearing. Proper shearing should have left the animal with a short smooth fleece. The challenge is to keep this growing wool free from contaminants. Clean wool is valuable wool. Contaminants increase the cost of processing as they decrease the yield. It is always easier and more successful to prevent contamination than to remove it afterwards. You don't have to raise sheep in a bubble, simply do things that increase the value and income potential of your wool harvest. While improving the wool quality, many of these practices benefit the health of the sheep as well.

Fleece contaminants come in several varieties, with the most common being acquired contaminants: feed, pastures, polypropylene, bedding and other animals.

Contamination from vegetable matter is the most prevalent problem. You've heard it before: feed at the level of the feet (not in overhead racks). But there is more to it than where the feed is placed. The act of feeding must also be analyzed. If the head and neck of your sheep are green, your feeding practices need desperate attention. In smaller operations, where feeding is done by hand, it is important not to carry or throw hay over the head or backs of the sheep. Doing so allows leaf and shavings to rain down on the wool. Feeding on the range from the back of a truck also requires focus on limiting hay contamination. Hay that is tossed inadvertently onto the head or back of an animal begins or enforces the contamination cycle. It also contributes to eye problems caused by chaff or seeds. Avoid feeding in windy open areas where hay, chaff, dirt and sand are forcibly blown into the fleece. Instead, choose a sheltered location, in a protected valley or hillside to feed. The fleece and the sheep will thank you!

Grain is also a contaminant. Never pour grain in troughs over the heads of impatient sheep. Carrying a bucket of grain into a flock of sheep can be a dangerous! Plan feeding areas so that sheep can be locked out while troughs are filled, then open the gate and let the feeding frenzy commence. Adequate space at grain troughs is equally important for body condition and growth as well as wool cleanliness. Grain can be fed on the range from the truck through a piece of PVC pipe attached vertically to the trail gate or bumper of the truck. A hopper mounted at the top allows grain to be poured into the pipe, while the bottom open end of the pipe is mounted 10-12" above the ground level.

Pasture management is vitally important in limiting contamination. Weed patrol and seed head elimination is the main emphasis. Walking pastures several times a year not only provides some exercise, but potential threats to the health and safety of your sheep and their wool can be identified early on. Invite your local 4-H or FFA group to learn about and remove contaminants from your pastures, even if it is only one pasture. Cutting or burning pastures before weeds and thistles go to seed improves not only the current wool clip, but also the future pasture as well.

It's been said before and bears repeating: Polypropylene does not wash out or come out in processing. Once incorporated into the yarn, it will not accept dye. While baling twine is the most common source, an often-overlooked problem is old feed bags, tattered from the weather and use, blown out into the pastures and picked up by the fleece. Old feed bags (polypropylene or burlap) should never be used to store fleece.

Animal bedding choices should be "wool friendly." Short chaffy straw and wood chips cling to fleece and are embedded with animal movement. If wood chips/shavings are used for urine absorption, a thick layer of long straw (free of chaff/seed heads) needs to completely cover them. The heavy stalks of fleece contd... the uneaten hay provide appropriate bedding as well. Running other livestock that shed foreign fibers on the sheep reduces wool quality. Annual shearing of guard llamas and dogs limits contaminating fibers. Preventing birds or chickens from roosting overhead not only decreases fecal contamination and possible illness, but keeps feathers to a minimum. Contamination by foreign fibers has heavy price deductions. Coating sheep will significantly reduce contamination but may be impractical for larger flocks. Coating requires labor and maintenance, but is a “time trade-off” for other management practices. Remember, clean wool is valuable wool. If you are running a fairly large herd, start with coating 10% of the sheep, then track how much more profit you realize to weigh the benefits. Applied contaminants should be scrutinized. Paint markers are at the top of the list. While a necessity for many flocks, using scourable paint and reducing the size of the mark increase the amount of useable wool produced. Even scourable paint may permanently stain the wool. Freezing or over-heating of the marker causes congealing of the pigment, which makes it extremely difficult if not impossible to remove. When possible, marks should be placed on the head or even the face to prevent wool staining. Topical dewormers and sprays affect wool. Dewormers that contain phenothiazine are not only marginally effective against internal parasites, but also cause a red-brown urine stain on wool. Topically applied chemicals limit lanolin recovery and affect how scouring effluent is treated. Lanolin used in cosmetic products must contain minimal chemical content. Now is the time to start thinking about your wool in a broader application. Don’t we all need a little more cash? Getting your wool out of the defect grade requires managing contamination. If your focus has been on meat production, consider moving just 10% of the fleece into a fiber-based income stream. If you sell fleeces to hand-spinners/wool buyers consider dividing your fleece a little differently. Move 10% into a new income avenue or value-added-product system in which you own and control the profitability. Moving 10% can double your profitability. Follow along in our next article and discover how simple shearing day practices contribute to marketable wool and increased farm profits.

Submitted by Sonja Pyne, Woolhalla Tunis, Glendale, AZ

The magic that makes great fiber happens between the time a fleece is sheared and the time an artist takes up knitting needles, latch hook, crochet hook, or loom. In other words, great processing creates a great medium. Some people have a desire to participate in each step of the processing, but others would rather concentrate on creating the end product; still other people are interested in sheep but don’t know what to do with all that darn wool! As more and more fiber mills have closed down over recent years, their equipment dismantled and sent overseas, it has become difficult to find quality processors who use American-made equipment.

An alternative to across-the-continent processing with its ever-rising postage is now available in the western United States. Rita and Tom Beeson of Prescott Valley, Arizona have spent several years developing the pieces necessary to create Arizona Fiber Mill. This included an over-all plan, finding financing, locating and purchasing milling equipment made in the USA, and teaching volunteers and workers how to run the equipment to produce a high quality product. At the end of November, 2012 they opened for business, and the first paid fleece through the milling process was a Tunis!

While our favorite breed is no longer a novelty in some parts of the U.S., it is much less common in the West and Southwest. However, Rita first handspun Tunis a number of years ago and ever since has had a soft spot for the quality and versatility of the fleece. She is delighted with the prospect of mill processing Tunis and notes that as long as staple length approaches 3.5 inches an excellent product will result. She cautions that veg or VM is the curse of any fleece and GIGO (Garbage In, Garbage Out) is the watchword. No processing can ever remove all veg.

Arizona Fiber Mill (<http://www.arizonafibermill.com/>) has the capability to process from rough skirt through roving or finished yarn in any of several weights, and will accept single fleeces, fiber blends (yours or theirs), large orders, and anything in between. As they gear up for their first full year with the mill, Rita and Tom will work closely with you. Phone calls, samples, or a mill visit will ensure your fleece becomes the best product possible. Turnaround times are fast, quality is high,

A Tunis First for Arizona

For the first time since 1917, Tunis sheep have been exhibited in a public venue in Arizona. Gabriel Mora, a first-year member of the Queen Creek (Arizona) 4-H Sheep Project chose a Tunis wether for his first experience in sheep raising. The lamb was one of seven ram lambs born at nearby Woolhalla Tunis in May 2012 and after a visit to see the sheep, the selection of the lamb was Gabriel's own. He used the two months' wait before the lamb was weaned to build shelter and fences before bringing Wiggles home. Gabriel earned the money himself for purchase of the lamb, and was responsible for most expenses throughout the year, but a generous award from the Midwest and Beyond Tunis Association helped to pay for the pen and some other county fair fees. Their support was greatly appreciated! Because of southern Arizona's heat, the sheep year in Maricopa County is a little different from other, more traditional places. Here, 4-H begins the first of September, county fair is held the middle of April, and state fair in mid-October. Never having shown sheep previously, Gabe jumped right in to the 2012 Arizona State Fair last fall with his inexperienced lamb and scored a 3rd place and a 5th place in Showmanship for two different classes.

At the just-completed 2013 Maricopa County Fair, Gabriel again earned a 3rd place in Showmanship competing with more than 50 lambs and owners, but was unable to send his lamb to market because it had grown too big! He wasn't too heart-broken, however, because Wiggles has wiggled himself into the family and would have been sorely missed.

When asked about future sheep-raising plans, both Gabe and his mother were certain they would include Tunis – maybe this time some sort of a breeding program so they would have lambs of their own. "

Tunis to award over $1,000 in premiums at 4th annual

Midwest Junior Preview Show!

Funding drives have been underway since the first of the year and the Tunis division at the 4th annual Midwest Junior Preview Show is currently ranked 4th with over $1,000 pledged for premiums! The show has moved to Sedalia, MO this year due to its increase in size and will be held on June 15, 2014!

All of the money breeders donate to the Tunis at the MJPS is paid back out to exhibitors immediately following the show so that kids leave the fairground with money in hand! This year the show is on target to hand out over $11,000 in premium money including $100 to each showmanship winner and $300 to each Supreme Champion Ram and Ewe.

Exhibitors can enter online at www.midwestjuniorpreviewshow.com. All exhibitors receive an official show tshirt, free dinner and admission for themselves and their families into our Friday evening "Feeding a Champion" feeding clinic and a complimentary gift from Ketcham's Sheep Equipment.

The show has been designed to be a laid back, fun and educational event for the newest showman to the experienced shepherd. Join us this June in Sedalia, MO for a one of kind experience at the fastest growing junior sheep show in the country!

2013 ALL-AMERICAN JUNIOR SHOW BEING HELD IN EAST LANSING, MI

The 2013 All-American Junior Sheep Show is going to be held at Michigan State University Livestock Pavilion from July 5-7, 2013. The All-American is the premier junior breeding sheep show in the country. The breeds participating this year are: Polled Dorsets, Horned Dorsets, Hampshires, Southdowns, Cheviots, Columbias, Shropshires, Oxfords, Montadale, Shetlands, Natural Coloreds, Romneys, Tunis, Dorpers and Lincolns. Several meat breeds will feature slick shorn classes once again this year at the All-American. Judges for this year's event will be Farabee McCarthy, Sycamore, OH and Matt Scramlin, Holly, MI. Dave Clouser of Polk, OH, will be joining us to judge the third ring on Saturday, as we are expecting exceptional numbers for this year's show. The National Junior Southdown Show and National Junior Natural Colored will be held in conjunction with the All American Junior show this year.

If you have never attended an All-American Junior Show please make plans to attend this very special event! It is much more than just a sheep show, as there are several activities for the whole family. The show features a lamb camp for the young sheep owners, a 3-on-3 basketball tourney for the exhibitors, a sheep skil-a-thon competition, a sheep judging contest, free pizza and BBQ dinners for exhibitors and their families, free show morning breakfasts and an cherry pie ice cream social, a team showmanship competition, wool show for all breeds, promotional contests for exhibitors once again featuring a power point presentation category and an adult photography category, a college scholarship program for older exhibitors, a pool party for the whole family and much more!

Camping is available at the MSU Livestock Pavilion for $10.00 a night with electricity. No pre-show reservations required just check in at sheep show welcome desk upon arrival. Room blocks have been reserved at the following area hotels: Fairfield Inn-East, 2335 Woodlake Drive, Okemos, MI 48864 Phone:(517)347-1000; Candlewood Suites, 3545 Forest Rd., Lansing, MI 48910 Phone:(517)351-8181 and Comfort Inn & Suites, 2187 University Park Drive, Okemos, MI 48864 Phone (517)347-6690. Cut off dates at the hotels are in early June and ask for the group rates under "All American Junior Sheep Show".

Entries close: JUNE 1st, 2013. There will be a higher entry fee for any late entries submitted after the deadline date and post entries at the show. Check out the All-American Website: www.allamericanjuniorshow.com for entry and further information.

The All-American Junior Show Committee has three major fundraising activities that are held to help raise funding for this special junior show. Coming back this year will be the All American Fundraiser Auction at the Midwest Stud Ram Sale during the re-instated Supreme Championship drives. Following is information on these activities and the show would certainly appreciate your support in these fundraising efforts:

A REQUEST FOR INPUT FROM THE MEMBERSHIP FROM YOUR NTSRI BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Your Board of Directors is seeking your input concerning the potential hiring of a Breed Secretary. The Board believes that a breed secretary would be useful to the NTSRI as a central contact person regarding the NTSRI and its activities. The Breed Secretary would also oversee official NTSRI publications, including the newsletter. Your Board would like to advertise for this position with the thought of compensating the successful candidate with a stipend of $1,250.00 per year. The Board believes that the Breed Secretary should hold no other position with the association and should act in the interests of all members equally. Please let your Directors know of your thoughts concerning this idea. If we do not hear from you we will assume that you do not oppose the idea. The Board intends to take action on this idea within the next few months...so let your opinion be known! The proposed job description for the position is as follows.

JOB DESCRIPTION FOR NTSRI BREED SECRETARY

- To take minutes at all BOD meetings, record and return the minutes, in a timely fashion to the BOD President and Secretary for review. Upon approval of President and Secretary, send minutes to full BOD for review; Make any edits and corrections recommended by the BOD, resend to BOD members the revised draft; final agreed draft minutes are also published on the web site; pending final approval, send the Official BOD Meeting Minutes to the website for publication.
- Communicate with BOD President.
- Check email daily
- Serve as a liaison between NTSRI and Associated Registries to collect membership information; To maintain the NTSRI membership database by:
 - Updating the membership roster when new members join.
 - Send Welcome Packet that includes: Welcome Letter, Tunis Breeders Directory and most recent newsletter.
 - Update the membership contact information, when emails and addresses are retuned.
 - Contact members when their membership isn't renewed;
- When requested by the BOD, send mail to the membership. This could include: preparing 320+ documents to go to print shop or printing the document at home, printing labels, stuffing envelopes and placing the labels and stamps on envelope. Picking up printed documents from print shop, picking up postage and dropping off mail to and from post office.
- Communicate and provided information to Website Liaison, Associated Registries, and the Banner.
- Communicate with members by email.
- Other duties of a similar nature as assigned by the BOD.

REGIONAL ELECTION RESULTS:

reported by: Bill Kerns, NTSRI President

Congratulations to Tom Mann (Region 4) and Sherry Palko (Region 5) for winning and accepting Director Responsibilities in NTSRI. The NTSRI Board of Directors is looking forward to working with the new members. Representation of the interests of your regions members is vital to the success of NTSRI. I encourage you to be in touch with your members frequently to understand their needs and concerns so we can continuously improve our organization. Tom and Sherry will begin fulfilling their positions during the next BOD meeting in Wooster.

Congratulations to Kathy Niese and Georgina Anderson for accepting roles as Alternate Directors in their respective regions.

The BOD wants to recognize Maryann McDonough and thank her for her support and professional contributions to NTSRI as Election Officer for 2013.

The Passionate Shepherd to His Love

A poem by Christopher Marlowe

Come live with me and be my love,
And we will all the pleasures prove
That valleys, groves, hills, and fields,
Woods, or steepy mountain yields.

And we will sit upon the rocks,
Seeing the shepherds feed their flocks,
By shallow rivers to whose falls
Melodious birds sing madrigals.

And I will make thee beds of roses
And a thousand fragrant posies,
A cap of flowers, and a kirtle
Embroidered all with leaves of myrtle;

A gown made of the finest wool
Which from our pretty lambs we pull;
Fair lined slippers for the cold,
With buckles of the purest gold;

A belt of straw and ivy buds,
With coral clasps and amber studs:
And if these pleasures may thee move,
Come live with me, and be my love.

The shepherds' swains shall dance and sing

For thy delight each ~~May~~ morning:
If these delights thy mind may move,
Then live with me and be my love.
